

GROVER TALKED AT UNVEILING

Former President Pays Tribute To The Memory Of His Former Cabinet Member.

UNVEILING OF THE MORTON STATUE

"Sage Of Princeton" Speaks Eloquently At The Ceremonies In Nebraska Today--Services Were Beautiful.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Nebraska City, Neb., Oct. 28.—The ceremonies held here today in connection with the unveiling of the monument of J. Sterling Morton, were upon a large scale and distinguished persons from several States were present. The principal address was delivered by Ex-President Grover Cleveland, of whose second cabinet, the late Mr. Morton was a member. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Morton were very warm personal friends and their political sympathies were thoroughly in keeping with each other. Mr. Morton was also the political sponsor of William Jennings Bryan. A number of distinguished men have arrived to attend the unveiling. Besides Ex-President Cleveland and the sons of Mr. Morton, there are: Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, former Vice-President; Richard Olney, of Boston, former Secretary of State; David R. Francis, of Missouri; Halley A. Herbert, of Alabama, former Secretary of the Navy; John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, former Secretary of the Treasury; and Judge Harman, of Ohio, former Attorney-General in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. The guests arrived here by special train this morning.

Cleveland's Speech

Former President Grover Cleveland said as follows:
"I have not come to the surviving family of J. Sterling Morton, and to those who were his intimate friends and neighbors, for the purpose of bringing from afar superfluous recital of his virtues and mental endowments. You who, within the sacred precincts of his home, knew the warmth of his love, need no words of mine to arouse in your minds the sentiments which befit this commemorative occasion. But I am not here without a mission. I would fain interpret this monument's message to me, as it recalls my close companionship and co-operation, in the discharge of the highest public duty, with the man who stood out from among a vast congregation of others who believed and knew the right, because in defense of the right as he believed and knew it, he was willing to fight and suffer, not only in a small arena of private and social existence, but in the fiercer, deadlier amphitheatre of public life. He believed that the same care and good faith exacted by a trust undertaken for an individual were due to the people from those who assumed official responsibilities and he believed that waste in public expenditures was sin. Our friend loved nature with constancy and delight; and through nature he was led to a reverent love of the Maker of the universe. He served the purposes of God on earth and taught his fellow countrymen to realize their relationship to nature and the father of all created things, when he established the planting of trees as a custom of general observance among our people. This work was done without trumpeting the praise of the man who founded Arbor day; and without perverting its beneficent design to the exploitation of his fame. Though the erection of this monument may have had its beginning in the loving appreciation of Arbor day, we cannot escape the feeling that it would tell but little of the story of the life and career of the founder of that day if there were not imperishably inscribed upon it the words "Pioneer, Statesman, Scholar" as well as "Tree Planter." The monument that recalls these features of his heart and soul is built on the hallowed ground of memory.

"And none of us should go from this place untouched by the lesson which this statue teaches. Here we should learn that character, uncorrupted by the contagion of ignoble things and unswayed by the corrosion of sordidness and money-madness, is the cornerstone of every truly useful life, and of every genuinely noble achievement. We shall do violence to the moral sense which God has vouchsafed to humanity if amid the surroundings we close our minds to the truth that character represents the real value of a man according to the unalterable standard of fine gold; and that it differs immeasurably from reputation which measures a man's worth by the shifting and untrue standards of mean ambition or successful cupidity. We have fallen upon days when our people are more than ever turning away from their old faith in the saving of grace of character, and flocking to the worship of money-making idols. Daily and hourly in the light of investigation and exposure, characterless lives are seen in appalling numbers, without chart or compass, crowded upon the rocks and shoals of faithfulness and breach of trust. How ill have these wretched lives exchanged the safe course and the harbor of honor and usefulness which character and rectitude point out for a wild and headlong rush over unknown seas in a consuming search for self."

"If our people ever return again to their trust in character as a steady force in our restless enterprise and immense material growth, it will be when they take to heart the full significance of such a commemoration as this. We memorialize a man who not only earned the lasting honor of his countrymen, but whose life, in all things worthy of high endeavor, was abundantly successful."

"Let those of us who were his fellow citizens and knew his life, heed his example, to the end that our work may be more unselfish and more loyal to the purposes of God and the betterment of our fellowmen. Let his sons, in whom was centered all his worldly pride, remember that the only success that is satisfying and honorable is that achieved in their father's spirit and high resolve."

"It is fitting that this monument should recall memories that must not die. It is well that it should arouse the living to noble endeavor. But to the dead it avails not. He has reared his own monument 'more durable than brass or stone.'"

The Safe-Blower's Son and the Hold-up-Man's Boy (to high Life Insurance official's child)—Git away from us; our governors won't let us associate wid a feller what has such a bad reputation as yours.

POLICE APPEAR TO HAVE CAPTURED ONE BURGLAR

Marshal Appleby's Search Of City Rewarded At Noon--Wounds On Hand Fit Stains On Stone.

Searching every nook and corner of the city for the burglars who broke into the offices of the Fifield Lumber Co. and the Badger Coal Co., the officers this noon came upon an ill-kempt straggler who was engaged in eating a lunch, probably given him by some charitable woman. There was something wrong about his right hand which prevented him from using it freely and when he was hustled to the police station and an examination made it was found that there were two deep cuts in the middle finger, one appearing as if he had caught some weapon slashed toward him, the other as if he had been gashed with a blade drawn from him. But these ragged wounds were the cuts of no steel blades.

Stone Stains Fit Wounds
Sherlock Holmes methods are not all impracticable, story-book nonsense. Now it happened that Marshal Appleby had saved the stone which had been thrown through the coal company's office window and afterwards used to break open the cash drawer by a man with a bleeding hand. When Mr. Tramp was made to close his wounded right hand over the stone which bore two conspicuous stains, the latter came snug up against the two ragged cuts on the middle finger.

The evil-appearing stranger gives his name as John Miller and says he arrived in Evansville from Chicago at two o'clock this morning and walked to Janesville on the track. That he had been in Evansville and had walked here is believed. But it is not believed that this was his first visit to Janesville within the last 24 hours. When asked to explain how he came by his wounds, Miller first told a very impossible story about cutting himself whittling with a jack-knife, which proved on inspection to be as dull as a hoe. When asked to demonstrate how he cut himself "both going and coming" in two diametrically opposite directions on the same finger, he confessed himself up a tree and admitted that the whittling story was a falsehood. The real facts were that he had hurt himself breaking a car-seat on an "empty."

Will Get a Sweating
About sixty cents in stamps, it develops, were taken from the coal office cash drawer. It is believed that Mr. Miller disposed of these along the track and if this can be established there will be more circumstantial evidence against him. Marshal Appleby is going to give him a sweating that he will long remember and it is possible that he will make a confession.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, October 28.—The sun appeared this afternoon in due and ancient form, looking as smiling as a candidate for office. It is good for the blues to look at this old fellow.

Coming to Janesville.—The celebrated Madame Margaret Bancroft, of San Francisco, California, assisted by Miss Julia Randolph and Mr. M. S. Van Buren, will give one of her concerts at Lippin's hall, on Tuesday evening, October 31st.

Madame Bancroft has recently completed a successful tour through the eastern States, and is now making her first tour through the west. We quote the following from the New York Tribune:

"We would say to all lovers of good music, poetry, fair faces and elegant stage attire, to attend Madame Bancroft's vocal, instrumental and dramatic entertainment."

Our long rain storm culminated in this section in a furious snow storm last night. We learn in some localities the snow laden trees so heavily as to break them down. Notwithstanding old Winter makes faces at us in this disagreeable manner, we have no idea that he has come to stay. On the contrary we must reasonably look for a great deal of pleasant weather yet. "So mote it be" is doubtless the prayer of those who have potatoes to dig and corn to husk.

Rev. R. F. Chapman of Andover, Mass., has now growing in his garden the third crop of peas this season, and expects that they will be fit for table in about a week. The first crop was planted the second week in April; the second the 25th of June, and the third on the 20th of August. The latter were in blossom in twenty-five days from the time planted.

There is a game which was at one time rather fashionable. One person sings a verse of a song, and as soon as he or she is ended, the next responds with another, which must in some way, no matter how absurdly, be an answer. It was, however, finally given up, because an eminent Judge declared it to be unconditional and illegal, as it was a game of chance.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

Of all the dramatic offerings which New York saw last season, there were about five that may be rated as conspicuous successes. The Frohman did two of them, Kirke LaShelle did two more and Belasco another. Roor LaShelle, whose untimely death will be lamented by everybody who valued clean, interesting and exquisitely staged plays, achieved the triumph of his managerial career when he presented at the Hudson theatre in mid-September a new American comedy entitled "The Heir to the Hoorah," by Paul Armstrong. LaShelle was not only the producing manager, he also staged the play and directed every detail of its first presentations. Also it has been said that he considerably improved upon Mr. Armstrong's original manuscript in re-writing it between the dates of the new comedy's presentation in Philadelphia and its metropolitan showing in New York. In any event "The Heir to the Hoorah" caught the fancy of Gotham and outman at the Hudson theatre any when he suggests to give the new-born infant a ranch.

Another decidedly funny scene is that in which the father, the uncle and the partner of the father and the uncle of the prospective heir to the Hoorah, are holding consultation over the outfitting of that fortunate infant. After having ordered a pair of horses, a brougham, and a phaeton in order that it may take the air, comfortably, they, at the suggestion of the old physician who has introduced Joe, Jr., come down to the question of an adequate supply of feed. It being delicately intimated that the heir is a "bottle baby." They have just decided on six cows, one for each day in the week barring Sunday and a champion milkmaid to milk them, when the more practical widow Brandon, proprietress of the Kalydid mine, suggests that nurses and a nursery are points of more pressing importance. It is explained that Johnson, a trained nurse, would be an expensive luxury after

STRANGE EXPERIENCE

Prominent Salesman of Detroit, Mich. tells most remarkable and interesting story.

ARTHUR W. HULL.

Apparently strong and robust with every appearance of good health, one would hardly believe to see him that Mr. Arthur W. Hull, of 143 Porter Street, Detroit, Mich., had just recovered from a general breakdown.

His work and over-strained nerves were responsible. He was compelled to give up work, medicines seemed to have no effect and his decline continued.

In a newspaper he read of the remarkable cures effected by the much-talked-of philanthropist, Mr. L. T. Cooper, with his New Discovery medicine.

His druggist assured him that the medicines could be used by him at home with the same good results as though he had consulted Mr. Cooper personally, and induced him to try them. "I used two bottles of Cooper's New Discovery," said Mr. Hull, in relating his experience. "I feel better than I have for months. My lost strength has returned, I sleep well and I wake with a new vigor and energy. My appetite is good and my nerves steady. I would never believe that any medicines could have such marvelous effects in so short a time, had I not been fortunate enough to try them and see for myself."

Cooper's New Discovery cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Deafness, Nervousness, Stomach and Kidney troubles and Paralysis and sells for one dollar per bottle. Cooper's Quick Relief the assistant remedy sells for fifty cents.

The medicines can be secured in this city of Mr. Cooper's special agent, E. B. HEIMSTREET, Janesville, Wis.

The ALDINE Grate, the only Return-draft, Base-burning open fire place, can be set anywhere in a house and piped to any chimney, any distance. No special chimney needed.

J. Boyd Paulding, proprietor of the Morton House and Hotel Paulding, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes:

"About twelve years ago I placed an ALDINE fire-place in the reading room of the Morton House, and since then have put one in one of the other rooms of the house. They are both of them in good working order now, and fully demonstrate all the merits claimed for them. The ALDINE in the reading room is piped down under the floor to reach the fire twenty-seven feet away, and still works nicely, keeping the ventilation in the room perfect."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The new German Lloyd liner, Amer-ika, made her initial trip across the Atlantic, and landed in New York one day last week. The Amerika is not only the largest ocean greyhound afloat, but also the most modern in construction, as well as the most palatial in appointment.

She is 600 feet long and 70 feet beam, with four decks connected by a passenger elevator which made 5,000 trips during the first voyage.

The Amerika is a floating palace and every luxury is provided. The state-rooms vary in price from $300 to $1,200. Four hundred first-class, two hundred second, and about four hundred stateroom passengers found accommodations on the first trip.

A French chef has charge of the dining room, and meals are served à la carte at prices which would be considered high in Paris. The cheapest meal served was a bowl of soup and cup of coffee for 85 cents, while a check for $72 was demanded for the best full course dinner.

The cash receipts of the Amerika on a eight-day trip were $149,000, which indicates that American tourists are well supplied with money.

The New York harbor presents a scene of busy activity, and the waterways connecting Jersey city, Long Island and Staten Island, are so full of all kinds of crafts, that they look like a well traveled thoroughfare.

Hundreds of thousands of commuters cross these water channels every day and it is easy to realize that 4,000,000 contribute to the population of Greater New York.

The Battery and old Castle Garden, so long known as the gateway which always swung in, is transformed into a beautiful park, and the building once filled with immigrants is now an aquarium supported by the city, and free to visitors.

Ellis Island is the present dumping ground where all foreigners are landed and inspected before being admitted as citizens.

On the extreme point at Castle Garden, the Whitehall building, an 18-story sky-scraper, furnishes a fine view of the harbor and the city as well, and for miles, stretching up to central park, a panorama of rare beauty greets the eye from the water front as myriads of electric lights sparkle in the darkness like a galaxy of stars.

The liner Amerika is but an incident in the wealth of America's great metropolis, where ships from every sea, and railroads from all points of the compass contribute to the city's prosperity and stability.

It is a city where full-fledged men find employment for brain as well as hand, and where the race is to the strong in a peculiar sense.

It may be a city for young men, but there is an army of them here who are growing old and care-worn in routine service, with but little offered to encourage hope in the future.

A veteran Chicago business man persuaded a young man from Janesville to join him in business some years ago. He said to a mutual friend, a little later: "I have brought this boy here for his bones."

There is an army of young men in New York who are making a similar contribution with but little to show for it but a scanty living.

New York impresses a western man as a city of concentrated wealth, with Wall street as the hub. Money is the shrine at which men worship, and there is no city in the land where a little money seems so insignificant.

The scramble for wealth may not be so vigorous as in some of the western cities, because the class of men who have given up the struggle is larger, but the life is just as strenuous, and destitute of sentiment.

The man with $100,000 in New York lives on the back street and practices economy. If he gets very much out of life it is not apparent, while the vast multitude, who live on moderate incomes, are simply cogs in the great machine of the greatest concentration now in existence. Monopoly is the watchword, and it is stamped on the face as well as the goods. Horace Greeley was right when he said to boys of New York: a good many years ago: "Young men go West."

The great fortunes of this wonderful city have taxed brain and mind to the limit and the thousands of men now passed the age limit, who have toiled and sacrificed to win these wonderful prizes will many of them be as poor as paupers when they stand on the shores of time.

Bishop Fowler, who presided at the laying of the corner stone of the Carroll Memorial church, last summer, related a little fable, which is worth considering in this age of greed and made desire for great accumulation.

"A wealthy lady died and was greeted at the gate of heaven by Saint Peter. She said: 'I have a mansion here, but am a stranger, will you kindly show it to me'."

The old Saint examined the record and said: "Yes! I will be pleased to with thee."

They started out, passing down beautiful avenues lined with costly dwellings, when her attention was attracted to a massive house which gave evidence of great wealth and refinement.

She stopped to admire it and asked whose house it was. "Oh!" said the Saint, "that belongs to John Kelly."

"Well, who was John Kelly? I used to have a coachman by the name of Kelly," said the lady.

"Yes, that is the man," replied St.
Peter. He has one of the best houses in the city."

"You surprise me," said the lady.
"John was a poor man when he died, how did he pay for the house?"

"Oh," said the Saint, "He was good to the poor and took care of the sick, and almost every day he made a deposit in our bank, and when he got here he had enough treasure to buy almost any house in the city."

"Then they passed on and the street became narrower and the houses poorer, until in a back street St. Peter stopped in front of a little cottage, unlocked the door and said: 'Sister, enter, this was the best we could do for you, for your bank account was very small.'"

A stroll around New York, where money seems to bear the stamp of dirt, suggests that many people may be disappointed later on.

PRESS COMMENT.

Northwestern Meets "The System." Chicago Tribune: The system of Prof. Eckersall will be tried on a select corps of students from the Northwestern.

Superior Editor Not Pleased.
Superior Telegram: The Archibon Globe says: "A woman addressed a body of women yesterday on the subject of race suicide and blamed the men." Well, geewhiz!

Yellow Verse on Brown October.
Bryan's Commonwealth: "It would help some," remarks an esteemed contemporary, "if there was some way of shutting off yellow verse about brown October." It does make us blue.

Life Insurance and the Mc's.
Chicago Record-Herald: Actuary McClintock's testimony added to that of McCall and McCurdy merely strengthens the opinion that the Mc's seem to have it in the life insurance business.

Wants a Tip From Mars.
Racine Journal: Percival Lowell, professor at Lowell, says the canals on Mars are undoubtedly irrigated canals. Perhaps a wireless might give up a point in our government irrigation projects.

Shonts is a Cute One.
El Paso Herald: The report that gold had been discovered on the line of the Panama canal is probably merely a cute expedient on the part of Shonts to get his digging done for nothing.

Joel B. Dow "Approached."
Beloit News: Among others, J. B.
Dow has been approached by some attorneys and a number of business men and asked to consider the question of entering the lists. (Ancient the municipal court judgeship.)

Has Cinch on Norway.
Milwaukee News: Prince Charles of Denmark is said to have a "cinch" on the election to the Norwegian throne. It is not disclosed whether he has organized a "machine" or merely stands in with the "boss."

Too Much for the Democrats.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The Republic says that nine months of Republicanism is all the Democrats of Missouri want. There are Democrats at Clinton, eminent in the history of their party and state, who insist that it is a good deal more than they want.

Representing the "Patient Poor." Milwaukee Sentinel: With "Jim" Frear, Henry Cochens, "Johnny" Nelson and "Eddie" Leroy at the interstate commerce law convention, the interests of Wisconsin farmers will be as well protected as they would be in the hands of "Jim" Driscoll, "Harry" Falls, "Johnny" Stone, and
"Eddie" Sautry.

Nothing Truer Than This.
Oshkosh Northwestern: As a general rule the man who is always complaining about the alleged inaccuracies of the newspapers is the very one who invariably refuses to furnish the reporter with facts within his knowledge, thus forcing the scribe to sketch around and get the information from the best sources he is able to find.

Don't Fret on That Score.
Green Bay Gazette: Congressman Babcock claims that there will be a stalwart candidate for governor at the primary election next year, while several other leading stalwarts suggest that the best half breed candidate be decided upon. There may, however, be but one half breed candidate in the field and that one backed by Senator La Follette. What would the stalwarts do then, poor things?

Plot Will Not Eventuate.

EDWIN S. GEORGE'S great line of Samples of

Fur Scarfs, Coats, Muffs, Etc., representing this large Detroit manufacturer's stock will be shown at our store,

Tuesday, October 31,

by Mr. F. A. Jones. Should the reader be interested in FURS this will afford an excellent opportunity to see a representative line. Women who have Furs that need Repairing or Altering will do well to consult Mr. Jones who is in a position to figure LOW, especially on Real Seal Garments; much LOWER than Chicago fur-riers; the best of workmanship guaranteed. Fancy prices do not make Real Seal Garments any better. Do not be robbed by the large city houses. Edwin S. George imports his own skins; they have the government stamp on the back.
Save from $50 to $100 by ordering of Mr. Jones. Real Seal Garments sold by Mr. Jones on previous trips over a term of several years have given the best of satisfaction. Everything in Furs

Special Orders Taken.

Call Tuesday, October 31st.

Journal begins a column and a half editorial like this: "Mr. Lenroot is the most objectionable of all the half breed offerings and it may as well be understood now that there are 75,000 Wisconsin republicans who will never vote for him. The choice of selecting a successor was difficult for Governor La Follette, but he did what a dictator would naturally do—hit upon a perfectly submissive tool, one who would obey orders and ask no questions. This has been Lenroot in the past. But the plot will not eventuate.

Just Tribute.
Because the government has declared that it is no longer responsible for the Wagonago Indians near Black River Falls, and that the Indians are no longer government wards, the city or county will be compelled to care for the paupers of the tribe. The tribe has sixty paupers, and of these forty-nine are over 62 years old, nine are totally blind, and the rest are cripples. It is proposed by the mayor that on the first day of pauper payment those Indians are to be the first in order, and are to be given a feast by the business men.

What is Electricity?
Exchange: With all man's boasted wisdom the question "What is Electricity?" remains unsolved. Referring to this problem a writer in the Scientific American says: "Some eminent GALLEY."

Game Lost by Cigarettes.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: There is a valuable sermon of the cigarette evil to be found in the defeat of the famed Holyoke (Mass.) High school football team by its hated Springfield rival last Saturday. The defeat is charged directly to cigarette smoking, which is said to have been indulged in by both the captain and the members of the Holyoke team. Principal Moravia refuses to mince matters and has therefore called for the resignation of the captain and in explanation of his action says: "I have no desire to be arbitrary, but I feel that if the faculty sanctions athletics the school team should give creditable performances in the various trials of skill, I am determined to eliminate cigarette smoking by members of the football and other athletic teams."

CHAPTER VIII.

THE buckboard drew up to the back or open fenced entrance of the Rodney house with a splendid sweep, terminating in a brilliantly staccato halt, as if to convey to the residents the flattering implication that their house was reached via a graveled inequality of prairie overgrown with cactus stumps and clumps of sagebrush. From the buckboard stepped a figure whose agility was compatible with her driving.

No sketchy outline can do justice to Mrs. Yellett or her costume. Like the bee, the ant and other wonders of the economy of nature, she was not to be disposed of with a glance. And yet there was no attempt at subtlety on her part. On the contrary, no one could have an appearance of greater candor than the lady whose children Mary Carmichael had come west to teach. Her costume was a thing apart, suggesting neither sex, epoch nor personal vanity, but what it lacked of these more usual sartorial characteristics it more than made up in a passionate individualism—an excessively short skirt, so innocent of "fit" or "hang" in its wavering, indeterminate outline as to suggest the possible workmanship of teeth rather than of scissors, and riding boots coming well to the knee, displaying a well shaped, ample foot, perched aloft on the usual high heel that cow punches affect as the expression of their chiefest vanity. But Mrs. Yellett was not wholly manish in her tastes, and to offset the boots she wore a bodice of the type that a generation ago used to be known as a "basque."

Such a garb was not, after all, incongruous with this original lady's weather beaten face. Her skin was tanned to a fine russet, showing tiny, radiating lines about the eyes when they twinkled with laughter, which was often. No individual feature was especially striking, but the general impression of her countenance, was of animation and activity, mingled with geniality and with native shrewdness.

"Howdy, Miz Yellett," called out old Sally, hitching her rocker forward in an excitement she could ill conceal. "You uns' govment come, an' she ain't much bigger'n a little green gourd. Don't seem to have drawn all the green comin' to her yit."

"In roundin' up the plats of my govment, Miz Rodney, you don't want to forget that green gourd and green grapes is mighty apt to belong to the sour family, when they hangs beyant your reach."

"A-yi!" grimaced old Sally. "It's tofable far to send east for green fruit. We can take our own pep'mint."

The prospective advent of a governor in the Yellett family—moreover, one from that mysterious corner of culture, the east—had not only rent the neighborhood with bitter factions, but had submitted the Yelletts to the reproach of ostentation. In those days there were no schools in that portion of the Wind river country where the Yelletts grazed their flocks and herds.
